Retailers accused of refusing to honor Kahnawá:ke tax-free status

For immediate release

(29, Kenténha/October 2004) It has come to the attention of the Mohawk Council of Kahnawá:ke that certain retailers in the area may be refusing to honor the agreement that allows Kahnawakehronon to purchase goods off the Territory without having to pay the provincial sales tax (PST).

“The current agreement, signed with Quebec in 1999, is still in effect,” said Grand Chief Michael Delisle, Jr. “If any merchants aren’t respecting the agreement, we want to know about it.”

Once again we would like to remind the community that, should anyone run into problems in terms of this nature, please contact John Latour at the MCK or the MCK Communications team.
